Founder, Owner, and Creator- Monica Anderson

Monica Anderson assumed her destiny by designing greeting cards out of her home for her own personal use. She found that correspondence cards with charm and wit made for a memorable occasion, which gave her designs instant popularity. Remanents debuted at the 2001 National Stationery Show, with one of the first orders placed by international shoe designer, Stuart Weitzman's wife, Jane. What began in 2000 as a thoughtful gesture for family and friends has developed into a growing business. Remanents has captured the attention of the elite and high-fashion (such as Oprah Winfrey).

Monica's bold, witty, and open approach to life is reflective in her stationery. She understands that most women search for fun, intelligent, and unique ways of expression, and her cards deliver with a stylish edge. Monica is a fashion, movie, and book loving coffee drinker and marathon runner. Her inspirations come from everyday life. With attractive designs, creative and "pithy" wordplay, high-quality materials, and innovative packaging, Remanents has quickly become a favorite with consumers. In addition to creative greeting cards and invitations, unique gifts have been added to the Remanents umbrella.

Remanents is proud to support many non-profit organizations, including a most recent donation to the Arts Connection in NYC bringing artists to the inner city. The new Style Diaries line of cards will donate 20% of the profits to the Global Women's Fund. In addition, Remanents donates unused or overstocked cards to our troops in Iraq.

Monica is also the proud wife and mother of three. She resides in Haddonfield, NJ with her family, who are very much involved and significant in her thriving stationery business.

Remanents was selected as a "Top Pick for 2006" in the October issue of NJ Life Magazine. Remanents has been sold in many exclusive stores including, Saks Fifth Avenue, Neiman Marcus, Anthropologie, Fortnum and Mason (London)--and more intimately, in hundreds of paper and lifestyle stores across the country (including Kate's Paperie in New York).
